7. Equipment / Packing List

The Annapurna Circuit with Tilicho Lake is a world-class trekking route in Nepal. From lush valleys to high mountain passes, and the stunning Tilicho Lake—one of the highest lakes in the world—this trek covers it all. But with varied terrain and temperatures ranging from warm and sunny to cold and snowy, packing smart is key. Here's a detailed gear list based on real trail experience to help you prepare confidently for this adventure.

?? Trekking Essentials

Duffel Bag (80–100L)

Your main bag will be carried by a porter or pack animal. Use a rugged, weather-resistant duffel.

Daypack (30–35L)

You'll carry this yourself. Pack essentials like water, jacket, sunscreen, snacks, and camera.

Rain Cover

Showers and snow can appear suddenly. Most daypacks come with one—if not, buy separately.

Trekking Poles

Highly recommended, especially for steep sections and the Thorong La Pass.

Sleeping Bag (Rated to -10°C/14°F)

Nights at high altitudes can be freezing. Rentals are available in Kathmandu or Pokhara.

Water Bottles + Hydration Bladder

Carry a 2L bladder for ease and 2 bottles (1L each) as backup.
